

Mamba

How To Play:

This game works best with lots of players. Have the players gather in a large area (works well outside). Define the borders of the area. Players must stay within the borders. One player is selected to be the Mamba. The Mamba must try and catch the other players, who must stay within the specified area. Any player who runs outside this area is out. When a player is caught by the Mamba, he joins the snake by placing his hands around the Mamba's waist. Only the snake's head (the original Mamba) can catch people, but as more players get caught, the players making up the body of the Mamba can entrap other players. The game ends when all players have been eaten by the Mamba. The last player to get captured may win a small prize.
